Kids Can Ride The Vitamin Infused Water Bandwagon Too!

Tags: food & drink by: posh

Kids love water bottles. Now with the new wave of vitamin waters, our water bottle obsessed children are even doubly teased by this generally grown up treat. Waterlicious, a vitamin and fiber enhanced, no preservative and high fructose corn syrup free water made for kids contains half the sugar of 100% fruit juice. Not only is it totally delicious (my kids are drooling at me right now with the bottle in front of me) the super fun packaging have made for kids written all over it. We had the pineapple flavor which I thought had all the flavor of juice with out being overly sweet and the kids couldn't drink fast enough. It's contains Crystalline Fructose, a natural fruit sugar that is slow to absorb and does not adversely affect blood sugar levels.

I am hoping these are going to show up on Costco and supermarket shelves in the very near future. Generally I don't post blogs for things that aren't readily available (don't want to tease you).. but maybe this little blog post will help get it onto some retail shelves!! This is one of those items we like to stock up on (something easy, healthy and portable to quickly grab for our outdoor and backyard adventures). But for now, this low calorie and all natural flavored drink is only available directly (e-store coming soon) by calling 800-574-2973. For more info (and to let your kids hear the catchy jingle) visit Waterlicious.Com

Waterlicious Win It!! 2 lucky readers will get a 4 pack of Waterlicious. Just leave a comment below on what flavor you would most like try after visiting Waterlicious.Com
